PRAGUE, August 26 /PRNewswire/ --

- First, Nation-Wide .Tel Network in the World

R3 Tel s.r.o, the leading Internet Communications Service Provider for the Czech Republic & Republic Cities Corporation Ltd, the leading intuitive city domain name licensor, announce the launch of the first, nation-wide, .Tel Network in the World, beginning with Prague.tel.

Communications-centric, .tel domains are actually high-speed Internet sites, easily managed by an individual, search engine optimized, viewable from anywhere, on any device connected to the Internet, including mobile phones.

The three most important things to remember about .Tel for business, at this moment in time are "savings, savings and savings", says Steven Cranston, CEO of R3 Tel SRO "No Website to develop, Search Engine Optimization is free, and cost effectively reaching Users of mobile devices requires no special software or programming expense", Cranston goes on to say: ".Tel saves money and increases consumer access to business contacts at the same time...a double-win."

Prague.tel employs associate editors to research and select 100s of local Contacts, including geo-location links for how to get there, emergency assistance numbers, jobs info, restaurants & clubs, shopping ideas, and health care contacts around Prague, and is free to use.

City names are utilitarian brands. Geo-locations define where, data structure defines what. Peter Hunt, CEO of Republic Cities continues, "By injecting your connectivity assets into a .Tel City Guide your data is highly visible across the Internet, and not limited to just the Web portion of the Internet." On the subject of cost Peter had this to say: "Maximizing your connection assets drives more sales calls & conversions. Potentially game changing."

R3 .Tel City Sites in the Czech Republic include: Prague, Praha, Ostrava, Brno, Plzen, Pilsen, Karlovy Vary, Cesky Krumlov, Liberec, Hradec Kralove, Pardubice, Usti nad Labem, Olomouc, Ceske Budejovice, Kladno, Spindleruv Mlyn, Moravia and Morava. Complete Network launch, in both English and Czech language, is scheduled for November 2009.
